To the King.

Sire,

I could not have presumed to approach Your Majesty with the following work, but for the reflection that it has already, when in its Performance was honoured by Your: Majesty's August Presence, been sanctioned with distinguished and truly encouraging marks of Your: Majesty's approval.

The kind and considerate feeling of Your: Majesty in being graciously pleased to allow me an opportunity of laying one of my works at Your: Majesty's Feet, by its condescension excites my warmest gratitude, and is an additional evidence, that, although Your Majesty fully appreciates, and justly rewards, the exertions of Foreign Talent, English Music is dignified and exalted by the Patronage of Your: Majesty, and that English Professors may proudly rely on their Sovereign's Fostering Protection.

Permit me, Sire, most humbly, yet fervently to hope that Your: Majesty will deign to accept this testimony of my sincere attachment and profound Respect, and that Your: Majesty will allow me the honor of subscribing myself

Sire,

Your Majesty's most faithful and most devoted Subject and Servant.

Henry R. Bishop.

OVERTURE.
